

Below is a fictitious example of a poem. There is a title, as well as the text. When submitting writing to us, also include the author's name, in the format that it should be displayed. If they are a 9-year-old who lives in Ohio and their name is Mary Smith, their name could be displayed as any of these:

"Mary, age 9"

"Mary S., age 9"

"Mary Smith, age 9"

"Mary, age 9 from Ohio"

or "Mary S., age 9 from Ohio"

Flowers

Flowers grow,
Up from the ground.
They move in the wind,
Without making a sound.

Pinks and yellows,
Magenta and blue,
Planting flowers,
is something I do.

I water the soil,
And God gives the light,
Seeing His creation
Is a wonderful sight!
